Fuqua's Invitation.

Frankfort, Ky., May 12.—State Superintendent Fuqua has written the leading educators of the State, inviting them to participate in a conference he has arranged to be held here on May 24 next. The purpose of the meeting is to discuss school work in the common schools of the State and to form an organization or educational association for the betterment of the work.

Some of the matters to be discussed are the securing of a nine-months' school term, the better training of teachers, industrial training in the schools, an increased number of grades and high schools, the addition of libraries to schools and the organization of citizens' educational associations in every county and town of the State.

Terrific Race With Death.

"Death was fast approaching," writes Ralph F. Furman of a fight, describing his fearful race with death, "as a result of liver trouble and heart disease, which had robbed me of sleep and of all interest in life. I had tried many different doctors and several medicines, but got no benefit, until I began to use Electric Bitters. Scarcely was the effect, that in three days I felt like a new man, and today I am cured of all my troubles." (Guaranteed at Short & Haynes' drug store, price 50c.)

Obituary.

At the age of seventy-six years, William C. Withers, after an illness of four months, departed this life, at his home near Kirk, on Monday, April 24, 1905. He was laid to rest in the old family burying ground, the following day. In the presence of a large crowd of his neighbors, friends and relatives, he thus testified their love and respect. The Rev. Dan Shacklett conducted the funeral services at the home of the deceased, preaching a touching and appropriate sermon. Mr. Withers was born near Elizabethtown, November 19, 1828. He was married Sept. 1, 1851, to Mrs. Alice H. Roberts, who still survives. To this marriage seven children were born, but only two are now living, James M., and Thomas H., the former living at Kirk, and the other residing at Harbansburg. In his early manhood Mr. Withers held a membership of the Baptist church and held his membership at Corinth, the Baptist church at McQuady, when he died. He was one of the best farmers and business men of the county. He owned a fine farm, consisting of several hundred acres, lying near Kirk, which he operated successfully upon scientific principles and accumulating liberally more than a competency.

In public affairs Mr. Withers always took great interest and yet, in assuming his positions, he was never offensive to those who saw differently. A kindly tolerance for the feelings of others was characteristic of the man. In his death the county suffers a great loss, and the life he lived may well serve as an example to the younger generation.

Monument to Eli Murray.

Logan C. Murray, of Louisville, was in Washington last week to direct the erection of a monument over the grave of his brother, Gen. Eli Murray, a native of Cloverport, who commanded the Third Kentucky Cavalry in the civil war and became a Brigadier General before he was twenty-three years old. The monument is of Scotch granite and contains this simple, but eloquent inscription:
"A faithful young soldier of his country. Died 1866."

Cerebro-spinal Meningitis.

Written for the News by Dr. Almond P. Latham, of Vinton Cross

Cerebro-spinal meningitis means an inflammation of the membranes of the brain and spinal cord. It is an acute infectious disease of microbic origin. There is an inflammatory exudate of serum present.

Certain atmospheric conditions favor the growth and transmission of these microbes, while any unhygienic and unsanitary and depressing influence opens the system to their invasion. The prolonged absence of sunshine increases the activity and virulence of the poison.

The young are most susceptible. An attack may be so mild and recovery so speedy, that the true nature of the disease is not recognized. Again, the onset may be sudden and rapidly fatal. The force of the disease depends upon the patient's physical resistance and the degree of virulence of the poison.

During an epidemic physicians are on the alert; but the sporadic cases often die because the disease is not recognized and properly treated; having been called something else and treated accordingly. This disease is also called spotted fever, from the fact that a skin eruption sometimes makes its appearance. This eruption may be diffused or confined to a limited area, and consists of bruised like spots, or of small red purplish spots like flea bites, or of little like vesicles which increase and spread and cluster together, terminating in furfuraceous scales.

The first symptom may be a convulsion, or vomiting, or both may be present. Dizziness, severe headache, pains in the back of the neck, extreme sensitiveness to touch, light and noise, delirium and constipation are common symptoms. The head is thrown backward and the knees are drawn up against a sunken abdomen and cannot be extended. There is rapid emaciation. The temperature varies from 101 to 106 degrees, Fahrenheit, and the pulse does not correspond. In some cases the temperature is subnormal. Pneumonia and pleurisy, paralysis of eye, ear and throat troubles may appear as complications. Sequelae are common.

TREATMENT.—The patient must be placed in a well-ventilated room to himself, away from all noise and excitement. The light must be excluded. There must be absolute quiet. The attendants should be cautious not to touch the bed or the patient unnecessarily.

TREATMENT.—Elimination of the poison from the system by natural means, is the main requirement. To accomplish this, an active skin is of the utmost importance. This is accomplished by means of the hot bath. The water should be heated to 104 or 105 degrees. The patient should remain in the bath from ten to twenty minutes if it is grateful, then be taken out and wrapped in warm blankets and allowed to sweat. This accomplished, the patient may be dried soothingly and placed between sheets. This operation should be repeated, as necessary, to relieve the restlessness and pain and to reduce the temperature. Drinking water may be allowed freely. It aids nature in the elimination of the poison. The bowels should be kept carefully and thoroughly unloaded with salt water and fountain syringe. Teaspoon of salt to the pint of water. In severe cases the hair should be shingled and cold water in a bladder or ice cup applied to the head. No morphine, opium, coal tar drugs, calomel, quinine, bromides, chloral, stimulants and antispasmodics should be administered. They confuse and defeat the vital processes and increase the death rate. Nourishment is very essential. The juice of canned fruits is the best, given in small quantities and at short intervals, say every two hours. Beef juice, made from the fresh beef, given, in alternation, with the fruit juices is good practice. All food given should be in liquid form.

Gold in Hancock, Maybe.
(Hancock, Clinton.)
Considerable talk has resulted from the passage of an Indian through the neighborhood a few miles back of Lewisport a short time since. The red man exhibited to Mr. El Fisher several bright nuggets of gold and told him they were found on his farm—probably in a sycamore tree near the creek. Mr. Fisher was one of the '49ers in California and thinks he knows gold when he sees it. He believes these specimens to have been the real article, but hesitates as to where they came from. Of course the Indian wanted money for his knowledge, but your Uncle Edwin has suffered and toiled much in the accumulation and retention of his gossamer pile of mazzuma, so he nibbles not. There is a tradition, however, that all of the Indians of earlier days passing through that section contend that marks on the trees left by their ancestors show plainly that gold is on the farm.

Tobinsport Again in the Field.

The Tobinsport base ball team played their first game of ball this season at Cannelton last Sunday, where they defeated the "Ponies" of that place with a score of two to one. Judging from this and that the other team had played several games before, our neighbors from across the water are going to be properly in the game this season, for the "Ponies," it will be remembered, handled all the local teams last year.

The Tobinsport boys say that they particularly enjoyed the visits of Kentucky teams which called on them last season and that the same ones or others can arrange for a game at Tobinsport with expenses paid, by writing to S. S. England, Manager.

Bryan on Base Ball.

The base ball season is on once more, and the lovers of the game are packing the "bleachers" and grand stand and cheering their favorites to victory. Baseball has a greater hold on the American people than any other athletic game. It is a game of skill and science, it furnishes exercise for participant and spectator, it takes those who play and those who watch out of the daily grind of business and gives them fresh air and fresh blood and fresh impulse. The growing boy who does not love to play ball should be looked after carefully. The grown man who does not love to watch a good game betrays the fact that he missed something in his early training. One reason why base ball has so long retained its place in the hearts of the people is that it has been kept practically free from the taint of gambling. It is a "clean sport," and as long as it remains such it will retain its place at the head of the American games of athletics.—Commoner.

PLEA FOR SPIRITUALISM.

Pastor Teils of Its Value in Demonstrating Soul's Immortality.
That there is nothing in the phenomena of spiritualism inconsistent with the doctrines of the church, but that on the contrary through it may come the scientific demonstration of the immortality of the soul, is the declaration of the Rev. Dr. Otto F. Bartholow, pastor of the Jesus Methodist Episcopal church of Brooklyn, says the New York Herald.

While Dr. Bartholow declared recently that he believed in the phenomena of spiritualism and that it was a subject worthy of investigation on the part of every thinking man, he believed that few if any of the alleged mediums were genuine.

"To my mind there is nothing in spiritualism that is in any way inconsistent with the doctrines of the church," Dr. Bartholow said. "It is true that many persons ridicule it, but there has been nothing new in the physical or spiritual world that was not scoffed at in the beginning. The learned professors of science were as confident that Columbus would sail into a sea of boiling fire when he started on his westward trip as the learned professors of today are that there is nothing in the phenomena of spiritualism."

"It may be that through spiritualism will come the scientific demonstration of the immortality of the soul. And why should not this be scientifically demonstrated? There is not a thinking man today who does not believe in mind reading or telepathy and phrenology, and yet in the beginning of the study of these subjects they were ridiculed in every way as much as spiritualism is today."

"In affirming my belief in spiritualism I make no brief for the so called mediums, for they will, as they have, do more to prevent a scientific study of the subject than any other thing. That to these mediums are given a monopoly of the communication between the spirits that have gone before seems to me to be as wicked as it is impossible. How much more worthy it would be for a spirit to communicate with a person with whom a feeling of love and sympathy existed."

"Spiritualism should become as settled a principle as telepathy. It would wipe away every argument of the atheist. It will do no harm to give every body of spiritualism the deepest thought, and it is worthy the best investigation on the part of scientists as well as the theologians. These people who prey on the bereaved, who in their hour of grief are looking everywhere for solace, should be suppressed, but that 90 per cent of the mediums are friends is no argument that as a phenomena spiritualism is not worthy the best thought of the age."

In Memoriam.

Died, at his home near Sample, Ky., May 1, 1905, Wm. Minor Furrow, age forty-eight years. He died of consumption after an illness of two years, in which time he suffered intense pain.

Wm. Minor Furrow was born December 25, 1856, in Breckinridge county. His parents died when he was a small boy. At nineteen years of age he was married to Miss Mary E. Dasher. To this union were born nine children, five of which are living: Joseph, Katie, Dennis, Bessie and Essie. He leaves two brothers and two sisters, John Furrow, of near Cloverport, James Furrow and Mrs. Sarah Taul, of Mattingly, and Mrs. Frances Ball, of McQuady, who, with his wife and children, mourn the loss of a loving brother, a kind husband and affectionate father. He was a member of the Methodist church at Sample, at which place the funeral services were held by Rev. Robertson. The remains were laid to rest in the Sample cemetery. As a Christian, a citizen, a husband, a father and as a man, Mr. Furrow was all that was possible for one to be. All who knew him loved him. There is a place vacant in their home which never can be filled.

TO RAZE OLD TENEMENT.

Last Trace Of One-Time Big Local Industry to be Removed.

Within six months or a year the last vestige of an industry that was thought at one time would make Cloverport famous, will be removed.

The old brick tenement house and the brick blacksmith shop, just east of the Henderson Road shops, which were in use when the manufacturing of coal oil from cannal coal was at its zenith here, are to be razed to the ground, for the material that is in them, by J. A. Barry, agent of the Breckenridge Coal Co., Limited, and no trace will then remain of an industry which was practically killed by the discovery of petroleum and to develop which several thousand dollars were expended.

J. Wesley Steele, one of Cloverport's oldest citizens, gave a representative of the News some interesting facts concerning this industry during an interview. Mr. Steele was an employee of the companies which operated the cannal coal mines at Bennettsville, near Victoria, and the coal oil works, which were located near the old tenement house, which was inhabited by the employees. There were formerly several tenement houses, as well as the buildings which composed the oil works, but these have been long since removed.

A railroad to the mines at Bennettsville was built about 1855 and the cannal coal brought here was shipped by steamboat to New Orleans and thence to England, where oil was manufactured from it. A few years later a New York company built the oil works here and utilized the raw material, selling the finished product at sixty cents per gallon. The works were burned just before the civil war. They were rebuilt but were burned again during the war, the oil in the retorts becoming too hot and starting the fire. After this they were not rebuilt and the industry was no more.

Mr. Steele says it is very probable that very little money was made by the company that operated the oil works. The railroad alone cost $400,000, says Mr. Steele.

Strictly Genuine.

Most of the patent medicine testimonials are probably genuine. The following notice recently appeared in the Atchison (Kan.) Globe: "Joe Tack, a well known engineer, running on the Missouri Pacific between Wichita and Kiowa, lately appeared in a big one, with a picture and when he was in this office to-day, we asked him about it. He says he had terrible pains in his stomach, and thought he had a cancer. His druggist recommended Kodol and he says it cured him. He recommended it to others, who were also cured." Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat and cures all stomach troubles. Just as surely as the sun shines your stomach can be brought back to its originally poor condition and life sweetened by this lasting and truly the greatest digestant known. Sold by all Druggists.

The June Smart Set.

"On the Newport Road" is the attractive title of the novelette which opens the June Smart Set. Sewell Ford is the author, and he has written as sprightly a piece of fiction as has recently appeared. The story tells of Mrs. "Billy" Reddick's social ambitions, her desire that her daughter, Barbara, may make a brilliant marriage, the sudden loss of the Reddick millions, and their ultimate recovery. The tale is comedy from first to last—bright, clean, clever comedy—and no reader can afford to miss it.

WILL STUDY FARMING

Vacation Scheme of Chicago Professors and Families.

EXPERT INSTRUCTORS IN CHARGE.

Five Hundred Acres of Land Bought, and Three Parents and Children Will Work at Plowing, Harvesting, Milling and "Doing chores" From one to four hours each, as part of a health and an important object.

A summer school at which the children may learn the best modern methods of raising poultry, cattle and pigs and of cultivating the soil while spending their vacation in the open air is the plan which will be put into practice this summer by Professor William Hill, professor of political economy at the University of Chicago; several faculty members of that institution and their families, says the Chicago Tribune.

Beginning with the close of the spring quarter, about June 26, those who are engaged in the experiment will leave Chicago and go to a farm near Wheeling, Ill., where they will spend the summer deriving in the soil, dealing to the cattle and performing all the "chores" that ordinarily fall to the lot of farmer and farmers' families, combining the pleasures of exercise with the pleasures of instruction.

The work at real farming will be begun in berry time and will continue through the haying and harvesting season until the crops are all safely stored away in the barn. Then the urban agriculturists will return to the city, improved by exposures to the summer sun.

The experiment primarily is intended for the benefit of the children. It is a project that long has been discussed in the elementary school of the university. Professor Hill and his family, however, will try the experiment as a private enterprise. Mrs. Hill and her daughter Cecil also will be with the party.

The objects of the school as outlined by Mrs. Hill are five: The cultivation of fields by the best known methods with modern machinery, the raising of a short-horn cattle, the raising of the best varieties of pigs, the raising of the best breeds of chickens and marketable turkeys.

Although there will be some real farmers around the premises to attend to a part of the heavier work, the instruction in all these branches will have to be given by competent teachers, who will have charge of the children and elders who make up the classes.

Plans have been made for the families who will take part in the novel experiment. Five hundred acres have been purchased near Wheeling, about thirty-two miles from Chicago, on which three houses have been erected, two of which have twelve rooms each. It is the idea of Professor Hill to secure, if possible, a number of new young people of other families, ranging in age from twelve to eighteen years, to take courses in the new course.

The schedule for the day is to be an arduous one. No drives will be allowed on the "University farm." The morning will be given to the kind of manual labor, hoeing potatoes, milking the cows, raking hay or tending to the live stock. In the hotter hours of the afternoon the students will devote themselves to the reading of historical or similar educational literature. The evening will be given over to games, music and a review of the work of the day. The members of the school will follow the rule of "early to bed and early to rise" as the betterment of health is not the least important of its objects.

According to the present plans the party will consist of thirteen, but in order to avoid the danger of having an ill one hanging over his new project Professor Hill is endeavoring to get other families to join in the movement.

Frugality of One Pound of Potatoes. Campbell Russell, the big cattleman from Hereford, Mo., recently finished plowing twenty-five acres of potatoes and says "I do as well as his small garden patch has done in recent years he will have potatoes for the entire Creek nation next year," says the Kansas City Journal. Mr. Russell says: "Ten years ago I received through the United States mail one pound of seed potatoes and haven't bought a potato since. Year by year I planted one acre in potatoes for my home use and the following spring would have wagon loads of them for sale. Last year I planted my regular acre and gathered in 380 bushel of potatoes. After using them all winter I sold what remained for a net profit of $200. So you see a one acre farm is not so bad and especially when I raised twenty crops in ten years."

Virtuous Dream of Spring.

Here is an ideally green clad young man for the season, according to the predictions of the British papers, says the St. James' Gazette: Oliver Green, Trinity hat, Lincoln green dannel suit (like Robin Hood's archers) with sea green stripes, emerald green tie, pea green striped shirt with collar to match, and sage green socks relieved with pale green spots. The boots would be left to the taste of the wearer, but a green whangee cane would be effective.

PRaise FOR OUR MORALS

Higher In America Than In Europe, Says James Bryce.

DECLARES BUSINESS IS KING HERE

English Historian Finds the United States Leads in Condition of the People—Absence of European "Markable." He says—Universities Rank With Europe's Best—Growth of Aesthetic Sentiment Noted.

The Right Hon. James Bryce, the English historian and parliamentarian who a quarter of a century ago visited America and produced as a result of his study of America and her institutions that remarkable work, "The American Commonwealth," again visited America a short time ago, and now in a recent issue of the Outlook he sums up the changes which have taken place since his visit in 1883. What will appear to most readers of this paper is that Mr. Bryce has to say on American morals.

"The general moral standard of the United States," writes, "will appear to me, as it did twenty years ago, to be, on the whole, higher than that of western Europe. Even in the wealthiest class, where luxury weakens the sense of duty and lays men and women most open to temptation, there are apparently fewer scandals than the same class shows elsewhere.

"Nor is the morality of any country to be measured by the number of divorces. Its condition may be really worse if people cynically abstain from obtaining divorces where there are grounds for obtaining them.

"That which most strikes the visitor to America today," he writes, "is his prodigious material development. Industrial growth, swift thirty or forty years ago, advances more swiftly now. The rural districts are being studded with villages, the villages are growing into cities, the cities are stretching out long arms of suburbs, which follow the lines of road and railway in every direction.

"The increase of wealth, even more remarkable than the increase of population, impresses a European more deeply now than ever before because the contrast with Europe is greater. In America every class seems rich in comparison with the corresponding class in the old world. The huge fortunes, the fortunes of those whose income reaches or exceeds $1,000,000 a year, are of course far more numerous than in any other country.

"But the absence of pauperism is still more remarkable. In 1870 I carefully examined the poor law system of two great eastern cities and found that, although there were very poor persons needing or receiving support at public expense, the number was expected to grow steadily and quickly as the cities grew. Today I am struck in these cities by the fact, though of course absolutely larger, increases more slowly than population.

"Business is king," Mr. Bryce observes a little further along. And he continues:

"With this extraordinary material development it is natural that in the United States, business—that is to say, industry, commerce and finance—should have more and more come to overshadow and dwarf all other interests, all other occupations. Every European who visited the last century since the beginning of the last century seems to have been struck by this fact. It is more striking now than it was thirty-five years ago. But the contrast with Europe is not greater now than it was then. Rather it is less, for in this respect England and Germany have been following in America's footsteps."

Mr. Bryce also makes this observation with regard to the trend of the population of the country:

"They are ceasing to be a folk of country dwellers. It is not only that the greater cities extend themselves with amazing speed and that many of the municipal areas are becoming so covered with villages as to differ little from cities—there is a general disposition to migrate from rural districts to centers of population, where a briske life and more amusements can be enjoyed. The change is all the more remarkable because agriculture continues to be prosperous."

Mr. Bryce also notes a decided improvement in our educational facilities. "There has been within these last thirty-five years," he writes, "a development of the higher education in the United States perhaps without a parallel in the world. Hardly speaking, for it is impossible to speak with exactness—America has now not less than fifteen or perhaps even twenty seats of learning, besides the great universities of Germany, France and England as respects the completeness of the instruction which they provide and the thoroughness at which they aim.

"The improvement in the range and quality of university teaching is a change scarcely more remarkable than the increased array of students, whereas in England the vast majority of students go to prepare themselves for some profession—law, journalism, medicine, engineering or the ministry of the Established church—there is in America a considerable proportion (in an institution I heard it reckoned at a third or more) who intend to choose a business career, such as manufactures or banking or commerce or railroad.

"Among the minor changes which the traveler notes he must not forget the growth of what may be called aesthetic sentiment. The desire to have beauty around us, to adorn the house within without the grounds, if not new, has developed since 1870."

A DANGEROUS LIQUID.

Hydrofluoric Acid Is Most Safety

beast in kitchen bottles. A gold bottle stood on the chemist's table. "In that bottle," he said, "my hydrofluoric acid is kept. Hydrofluoric acid is used in glass etching. The etching on glass thermometers is all done with it. It is colorless. It looks like water, but a drop of it on your hand would be electric enough to the other side like a bullet. Its inhalation is sure death.

"Hydrofluoric acid can be kept safely in gold bottles alone. Sometimes bottles of India rubber, of lead or of platinum are used. None of these, though, is as safe as gold.

"Every kind of clothes is in a gold bottle precautions must be taken with it. It is volatile, and hence a paraffin covered plate must be clamped tight over the bottle's mouth; also the temperature of the room must not rise over 60 degrees or the gold bottle will burst. "This acid, whose sole use is in glass etching, is probably the most dangerous thing in the world to work with. The etchplate, the iron tauter and the diver do not take their lives in their hands to half the extent the glass etcher does when, with his gold vial of hydrofluoric acid, he etches the scales of our thermometers."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

ABSURD CLOTHES.

Caustic Comment on the Style of Attire Adopted by Men.

"I like to feel clean," wrote George Bernard Shaw, the English dramatist, in the London World of Dress, "and my great idea of clothes is that they should be clean and comfortable as far as such a thing is possible in London. This, of course, excludes starch. I couldn't wear a thing which, after having been made clean and sweet, is then filled with nasty white mud, ironed into a hard paste and made altogether disgusting. To put such a garment on my person, wear it, move in it, people in it—horrible!

"The shiny white tubes on the wrist, the shiny black cylinder on the breast, the shiny white front to the shirt, the shiny black boot, the rain pipe trouser leg, the japanned zinc sleeve—that is your fashionably dressed man, looking like a cold blue-headed stove with a beaver hat. The great tragedy of the average man's life is that nature refuses to conform to the cylindrical ideal, and when the marks of his knees and elbows begin to appear in his cylinders he is filled with shame."

Discreet as a Handy.

A contemporary of Discreet in his memoirs records this impression of that famous dandy's personal appearance: "Usually he wore a slate colored velvet overcoat with satin lined trousers, with a gold braid down the outside seam; a scarlet waistcoat, long lace ruffles falling down to the tips of his fingers; white shirt front to the shirt, the shiny black boot, the rain pipe trouser leg, the japanned zinc sleeve—that is your fashionably dressed man, looking like a cold blue-headed stove with a beaver hat. The great tragedy of the average man's life is that nature refuses to conform to the cylindrical ideal, and when the marks of his knees and elbows begin to appear in his cylinders he is filled with shame."

Caution Necessary.

The young man moved a little closer. She moved a little farther away. "Way are you so cold and distant this evening, Miss Pinkie?" he asked. "I am not at all cold, Mr. Spoonmore," she answered, "but I am compelled to be distant. My vaccination is taking."—Chicago Tribune.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 17, 1905.

The wheat crop, in several sections of the county, looks like it may be almost a total failure. Its unfavorable condition has been noticed only in the past week or so, and there seems to be no special cause for it.

"The first time in thirty years I have failed to dedicate a church when called to do so," said Bishop Morrison at Hardinsburg last Sunday. Everybody in the county, we are sure, will be sorry of this failure. Such a beautiful church, it seems to us, should be the pride of every good citizen, whether he be a Methodist, Baptist, Catholic, in the church or out of it. Who would live in a town without churches? It's not only a duty of every good citizen but it should be his privilege and pride to contribute his mite to so good a cause. The Beard family came up with their part nobly and should be honored for it. The building committee should not be discouraged but renew their efforts and keep on pulling. They have made no mistake. It is none too good a church for Hardinsburg. Nothing is too good for that people. It's the best investment they ever made and will bring larger returns in the end. The thing to do now is for every man, woman and child in the community to put their hands a little deeper down in their pockets and pay for it.

Population Moving East.

A Washington dispatch says: Experts of the census bureau believe the center of population of the United States, which has traveled westward steadily since the foundation of the republic, has turned and is now heading eastward. They base their opinion on the increase in population in the eastern cities, especially in New York and a steady trend to growth in the south-eastern Atlantic seaboard. The only fact which they find to combat this theory is the rapid growth of population in the state of Washington.

It is expected that censuses to be taken in a dozen states during May and June will throw light on the present location of the center of population, which the census of 1900 placed six miles southeast of Columbus, Ind.

The tendency toward reversal of the direction of the center of population was noted in the decade between 1890 and 1900. It then moved westward only a little over fourteen miles, which is the smallest movement that has ever been noted.

Some Things About Tobacco.

Up-to-date Farming.

The American tobacco grower receives an average of about ten cents a pound for striped tobacco, from which he must get his pay for the plant, his labor, his time and his investment in a farm. The United States Government gets six cents for every pound manufactured. The English Government gets an average of seventy-five cents for each pound. The Italian and Austrian Governments get more than one dollar. The manufacturers make millions in profits and the dealers are well paid. The consumers pay well for the luxury, and what is the reason the producer is not well paid for the material? They will be when they understand these matters and provide themselves with means to control the market.

Billionaire Bill was getting bilious. And his tongue was nicely coated. Patent "tonic" wouldn't cure him, "coupage" would not insure him. All his friends were badly frightened. But their spirits soon were lightened. EARLY RISER pills relieved him. The famous Little Pills "EARLY RISERS" cure Constipation, Sick Headache, Biliousness, etc., by their effect on the liver. They never grip or sicken, but in part early rising energy. Good for children or adults sold by All Druggists.

Back At Washington.

Washington, May 12.—President Roosevelt and the members of his cabinet held a long conference today and considered many matters of state. The foreign policy, the tariff question and railroad rate regulation were supposed to be all given a share of attention.

It is found that the first and most important matter taken up was that of the Venezuelan controversy growing out of the revelations in regard to the Asphalt trust and the United States officials who have become mixed up with it. Both Bowen and Loomis will be given a fair hearing on the question as soon as possible.

The president complimented Secretary Taft and others of the cabinet on the manner in which things had been done in his absence.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy the Very Best.

"I have been using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and want to say it is the best cough medicine I have ever taken," says Geo. L. Chubb, a merchant of Harlan, Mich. There is no question about its being the best, as it will cure a cough or cold in less time than any other treatment. It should always be kept in the home ready for instant use, for a cold can be cured in much less time when promptly treated. For sale by Short and Haynes.

MOTHERHOOD

Actual Sterility in Women Is Very Rare—Healthy Mothers and Children Make Happy Homes.

Many women long for a child to bless their homes, but because of some debility or displacement of the female organs they are barren.

Preparation for healthy maternity is accomplished by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound more successfully than by any other medicine, because it gives tone and strength to the entire female organism, curing all displacements, ulceration and inflammation.

A woman who is in good physical condition transmits to her children the blessings of a good constitution. It is not that an incentive to prepare for a healthy maternity?

If expectant mothers would fortify themselves with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which for thirty years has sustained thousands of women in this condition, there would be a great decrease in miscarriages, in suffering, and in disappointments at birth.

The following letters to Mrs. Pinkham demonstrate the power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in such cases.

Mrs. L. C. Glover, Vice-President of Milwaukee Business Women's Association, of 614 Grove Street, Milwaukee, Wis., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I was married for several years and no children blessed our home. The doctor said I had a complication of female troubles and I could not have any children unless I could be cured. For months I took his medicines trying in vain for a cure, but at last my husband became disgusted and suggested that I try Mrs. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

JOHN JOHNSON WAS DROWNED IN CREEK.

Body of the Negro Who Escaped From Marshal DeHaven March 10 In Mud on Bank of Stream.

The body of a negro found in the mud on the west bank of Clover creek was identified, by the teeth, last Wednesday afternoon, as that of John Johnson, who escaped from Marshal Orfin DeHaven on March 10, while under arrest. Coroner Lee Bishop, of Hildesburg, was called and the inquest was held Wednesday afternoon, the verdict being that Johnson came to his death by drowning. The body was found early Tuesday evening of last week, but no mention was made of it in last week's News, as the forms of that issue had already been made up before that time. Johnson was arrested about 7 o'clock on the night of March 10, by Marshal DeHaven, for "trotting" a gun, and was taken to the city jail. While Marshal DeHaven was unlocking the front door of the jail, Johnson, who had been ordered to move back a few feet, stepped away from Marshal DeHaven and struck him "a very blow with his flat on the side of his face." Marshal DeHaven did not give the full force of the blow, as it was a glancing one, but as it was powerful enough to belly him. Johnson broke and ran east on Railroad street, after he struck the blow, and was several yards away when Marshal DeHaven gave pursuit, emptying his revolver at the fleeing negro as he ran. It was a very dark night and Marshal DeHaven lost sight of Johnson, as he crossed the Baptist church. He could not tell whether any of the shots he fired took effect, as there was no outcry from Johnson and no blood stains were found on Railroad street next morning. Irvin O'Brien, who was crossing the Henderson Route bridge over Clover creek, shortly after the shots were fired, heard some one struggling in the water and groaning as though in distress. It was too dark to see much below the bridge, but he secured a lantern as soon as he got across and examined the bank near where he had heard the struggle, and where the body was found. An examination was made the next morning also. Fresh tracks leading to the water's edge were found on the west bank of the creek but none on the opposite bank. This indicated, of course, that some one had plunged into the creek and a number of people believed that Johnson had unintentionally run into the creek and was drowned. Many, however, ridiculed this theory, seeing no cause why Johnson should run into the creek, when Marshal DeHaven supposed chasing him several hundred feet from the stream. Naturally the news of the discovery of the body on the creek bank caused much surprise, as nothing more was ever heard of Johnson and the event had passed out of the public mind.

The body of Johnson was found by George Megerley, son of Frank Megerley. It was almost completely covered by a thick sediment of mud and was held down by a log. The creek was higher when Johnson was drowned than when his body was discovered, which was on the bank several feet from the edge of the water. As it had been under mud and water for two months its condition

A CLEAN MAN.
Outside cleanliness is less than half the battle. A man may scrub himself a dozen times a day, and still be unclean. Good health means cleanliness not only outside, but inside. It means a clean stomach, clean bowels, clean blood, a clean liver, and clean, healthy tissues and fibers in every organ of the body. The man who is clean in this way will look it and act it. He will work with energy and think clean, clear, healthy thoughts.

He will never be troubled with liver, lung, stomach or blood disorders. Dyspepsia and indigestion prevent the clean stomach. Blood diseases are found where there is unclean blood. Consumption breeds mean unclean lungs. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery prevents these diseases. It makes a man's insides clean and healthy. It cleans the digestive organs, makes pure, clean blood, and clean, healthy flesh. It doesn't make the flabby fat of corpulency, but the firm flesh of health.

It restores tone to the nervous system and cures nervous exhaustion and prostration. It contains no alcohol or habit-forming or craving for injurious stimulants.

Mr. John L. Coughner, of Glen Grove, Somerset Co., Pa., writes: "My appetite was unusually poor, and I was as weak and nervous as though I had been starved for weeks. My heart kept throbbing continually and I was short of breath. After using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for a few days, I felt better. After using three bottles I began to eat and sleep better. I began to work, and I have been feeling ever since."

Constipation is the most unclean uncleanliness. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Laxative cures it. They never arise.

Suffering

Will Not Help Your Disease, but Will Weaken Your Nerves.

Poies who think it is better to bear pain than soothe it—are wrong. Old-fashioned doctors used to say it was better, because they had nothing with which to ease pain but dangerous, heart-paralyzing drugs.

But now, that a safe remedy has been found, Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills, it is wrong to suffer, for nothing can be gained but weakened nerves. A safe rule to remember is: When in pain, take an Anti-Pain Pill. This will soothe your quivering nerves. Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills relieve pain by restoring the natural secretions, in which they differ from opium and similar narcotic drugs, which relieve pain by shocking the action of the nerves. They are safe and harmless, and are the latest medical treatment for the cure of Headache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Disinfection, Toothache, Stomachache, Menstrual (Monthly) Pains. Also nerve irritations like Sciatica, Car-Sickness, Sleeplessness, Indigestion, etc.

Pleasant to take, quick in remedy. I have used Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills for sick, nervous headache, and have received the best results. I heartily recommend their curative properties for the relief of all the above. RAY A. WATSON, D. D., Iowa City, Ia. Sold by druggists at 25¢. Money back if first dose does not help. was such that no attempt was made to see if there were any bullet holes in the body. It was hurried where it was found, after the inquest had been held. Johnson was employed on the Henderson Route work train. He said when arrested that he came from Washington, D. C., and that his people lived there.

A Creeping Death.
Blood poison creeps up towards the heart, causing death. J. E. Stearns, Belle Plaine, Miss., writes that a friend, despatching his hand, which swelled up like blood poisoning. Bucklen's Arnica Salve drew out the poison, healed the wound, and saved his life. Best in the world for burns and sores. 25¢ at Short & Haynes' drug store.

More Double Track

Writing in The Raleigh Post of yesterday, Mr. J. C. Caddell foresees the time when trains running between Greensboro and Charlotte will dash through a continuous city, and says that the next ninety-nine year lease of the Washington and Annapolis Railroad by the Southern will call for four tracks instead of one. So, indeed, it will; and this reminds us of the aggressive statement in the Washington correspondence of The Post of yesterday that a force of hands will to-morrow begin grading the double-track between Greensboro and High Point. It is a continuing wonder how the Southern Railway contrives to handle so many trains, passenger and freight, on a single track, between Greensboro and Charlotte, with so few accidents, and a continuing cause of congratulation to the alert and clear-headed train dispatchers. The Southern is a great system, the most effective development of the South, and it has not undertaken its double-tracking policy too early. Think of the volume of its traffic fifty or sixty-five years from now.—Charlotte Observer.

Cures Catarrhal Deafness.

One Week's Use of Hyomei Did More Than Six Months' Treatment by Specialists.

In the treatment of deafness which is often a result of catarrh Hyomei acts almost immediately upon the inflamed membrane and the hearing begins to return at once. A few days treatment will bring relief, and in three or four weeks, according to the severity of the case, a cure will be accomplished.

Miss Meeks of Matewan, N. Y., says: "Hyomei is truly wonderful. I have used it but a short time and see a great change in my condition. My hearing is improving rapidly, and I had no idea I would improve so rapidly in so short a time. My breath which was so offensive to myself and others, has lost its bad odor entirely."

I have spent a great deal of money with catarrh specialists and can truly say that six months of their treatment is not equal to one month of Hyomei."

Short & Haynes are selling Hyomei upon the unusual plan of agreeing to return the money if the medicine does not cure.

A complete outfit costs only $1.00 and consists of an inhaler that can be carried in the vest pocket, a medicine dropper and a bottle of Hyomei. The inhaler will last a life time and there is enough Hyomei for several weeks treatment. Additional bottles of Hyomei can be procured for 50 cents.

Compare this small expense with the fees charged by specialists and then remember that if Hyomei does not cure Short & Haynes will return your money.

MISS JULIA MARLOWE
Heartily Approves of Peruna For the Nerves.

In a recent letter to The Peruna Medicine Co., Miss Julia Marlowe, of New York City, writes the following:

"I am glad to write my endorsement of the great remedy, Peruna, as a nerve tonic. I do so most heartily."—Julia Marlowe.

Nervousness is very common among women. This condition is due to anemic nerve centers. The nerve centers are the reservoirs of nervous vitality. These centers become bloodless for want of proper nutrition.

This is especially true in the spring season. Every spring a host of invalids are produced as the direct result of weak nerves.

This can be easily obviated by using Peruna. Peruna strikes at the root of the difficulty by correcting the digestion.

Those who were present were: Homer Lamb, William Fawver, James Lamb, Tavin Baker, Oscar Young, Vernon Lynch, Millard Compton, James Lynch and Leonard Preston.

Buy a bottle of Peruna to-day. If you do not receive all the benefits from Peruna that you expected, write to Dr. S. B. Hartman, Columbus, Ohio.
